

CONSERVATION WALKS

This pastoral open access includes part of the surviving earthwork remains of Cold Hanworth medieval village, a Scheduled Ancient Monument. This small settlement was established by the late 11th century, but declined from the mid 14th century and was abandoned by the 18th century. Now there is just a pattern of grassy mounds and hollows. The church standing outside the access area is a mid-Victorian replacement of the medieval original. As at the nearby Countryside Stewardship Scheme site at Hackthorn Hall the grass is being managed by traditional grazing without artificial inputs. This access is available during daylight hours only.
